

Service discovery

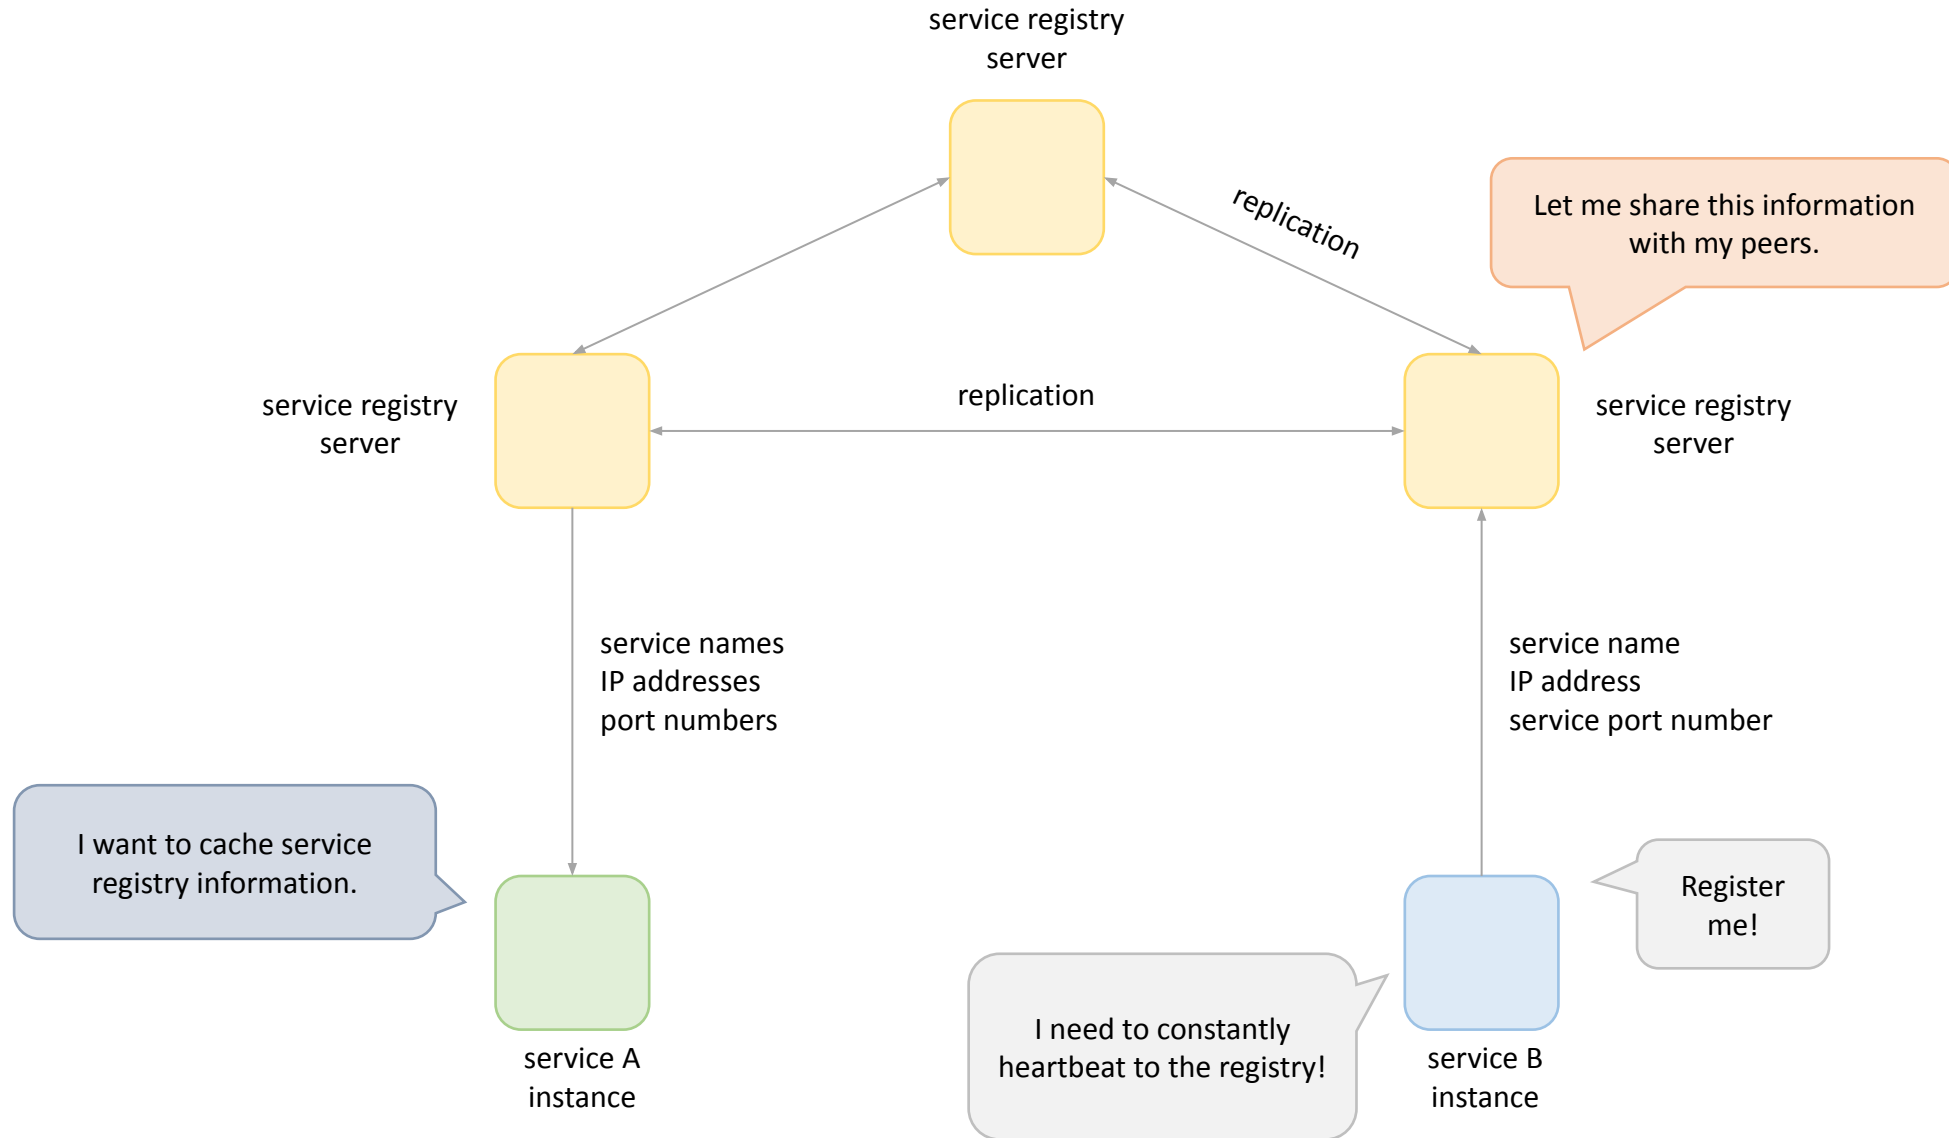

server-side discovery

client-side discovery

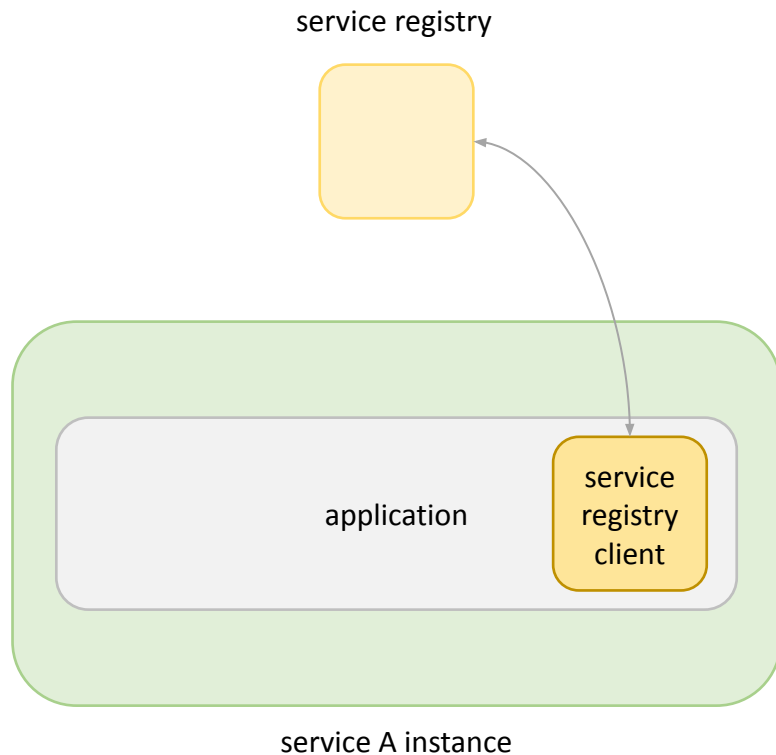

Service discovery

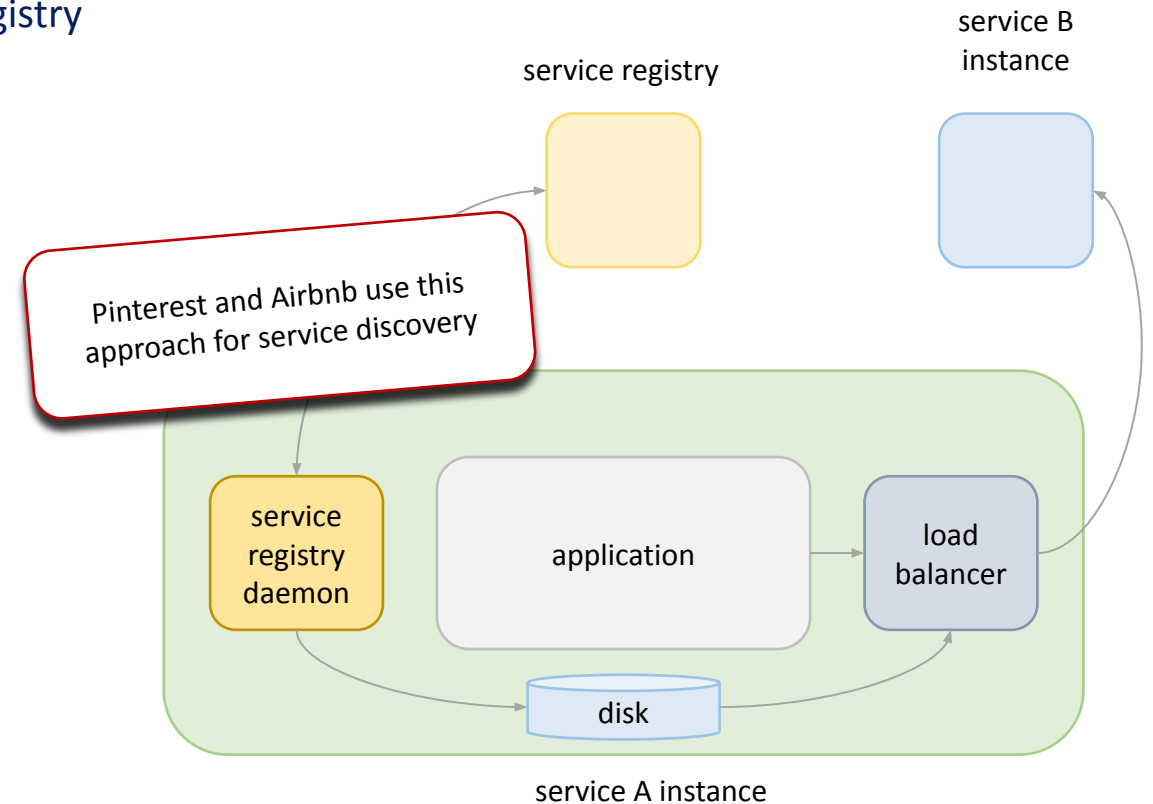

Service discovery

retrieving data from the service registry

- easy to implement and maintain
- requires a new client for every programming language

- programming language agnostic
- less error-prone (uses its own memory space, faults are isolated)
- works well with multiple applications on the same machine
- harder to implement and maintain